

Shaun Beardall

Executive Vice President, Brokerage Services

Shaun Beardall's career in the transportation industry began in 2005 when he joined C.R. England as the weekend fleet manager. In 2007, he joined England Logistics as director of container operations. He moved to Portland, OR in 2012 to oversee the integration of an England Logistics acquisition. After much success in Portland, he relocated back to Salt Lake City to lead the full truckload brokerage. During his tenure at England Logistics, he has proven successful in developing teams that achieve great success in growth and client satisfaction.

Today, as executive vice president of logistics services, Shaun has executive responsibility for all England Logistics' brokerage services, including full truckload, temp-controlled and dry less-than-truckload, and parcel, as well as the supply chain management group. He also has responsibility for England Logistics' Authorized Agent Division, which includes over 300 agents and staff.
