

Kevin is the Vice President of Supply Chain at Red Gold. Red Gold is America's largest family-owned canned tomato manufacturer, partners with family farms across Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio to sustainably produce premium quality tomatoes, ketchup, salsa, juices, sauces, and other tomato-based products for the retail, foodservice, private brand, and club channels of distribution within the US and among 16 countries. Kevin has been a supply chain and operations leader in the food industry for over 30 years in the US and Canada. He is a member of the Rail Shipper Transportation Advisory Council, which provides advice on regulatory, policy, and legislative matters to the Surface Transportation Board, the Secretary of Transportation, the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science & Transportation, and the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee. It is important to mention that Kevin nurtures his Canadian roots by playing beer league hockey twice a week, where he leads the league in missed-shots-on-net and penalty minutes.