

Todd Tranausky
Vice President, Rail & Intermodal

Todd Tranausky is the Vice President of Rail & Intermodal for FTR. Within the FTR team of experts, he is responsible for providing commentary and data analysis and forecasts for the FTR freight focused reports: Intermodal Dash, Rail Update, and Shippers Update report. He also plays a key role in producing our State of Freight Insights reports and the FTR Rail Equipment Outlook and Rail Closer Look Series.

Prior to FTR, he was the North American transportation editor for Argus Media, responsible for overseeing the quality of transportation reports and leading the company's new product development in this area. Before he was promoted in January 2015, he was responsible for editing the weekly Argus Coal Transportation newsletter along with overseeing the Argus Rail Business publication that focuses on rail and shipper dynamics, critical rate data, rail costs, and regulatory and operational issues in the rail industry. Todd also assessed rail and barge rates for the movement of petroleum products for the Argus Petroleum Transportation Report.

A Philadelphia native and diehard Philadelphia sports fan, he graduated Temple University with dual degrees in history and journalism. Todd has also worked as a sports reporter covering double-A baseball in New Jersey before joining Argus
